Trying to recover from a long morning, VCHS students sit on the stage and socialize.

Heading to their next class are juniors Chad Carpenter, Amanda Sharp, and Abbie Flegel.

Making the Pieces Fit: The First Days of School

The first days of school were spent getting back on track from summer vacation. Students got back in touch with friends with conversations about their summer activities. During these days you will meet a variety of different people. No matter what your interest, you can always find something to become involved in. Many students became involved in clubs and sports. During this time soccer, football, volleyball, and cheerleading have begun their seasons. For the freshmen, the first days of school are the hardest; they spend this time trying to fit in and make new friends. Sophomores start the year knowing what to expect and are glad not to be the "newcomers." Juniors and seniors, being experienced, start off the year being settled in, while they look forward to their futures and what they want to accomplish during the year. Teachers spend these days getting students to forget about summer and getting back into their school activities. They also remind students of classroom rules and to obey the school policies.

Showing their spirit during the powderpuff football game are sophomores Tasha Dunbrack and Bobby Sharp.

Students find time during their lunch shift to talk and spend time together. Each student quickly found his or her "place" to spend free time.

Student life at FCHS begins with getting to know other students. At TI camp, counselors involve students in fun activities to acquaint them with one another.

Student Life is one of the most important parts of high school. These are times to talk with friends and just have fun.

Each class got to show who had the most school spirit during Spirit Week. This was a fun time for students, especially getting to compete with each other during the powder-puff football game. They ended the week with the Homecoming football game and the crowning of the Homecoming King and Queen.

Sadie Hawkins is a time for students to compete in different games and activities. College Night and Career Day were very helpful for students. During College Night, representatives came from different schools and Armed Forces to share information about their schools and careers. Career Day was a time for adults to share with students information about their jobs and answer questions one might have about education and requirements.

Prom night was a very special night brought together by the Junior class. Prom is a time for couples and friends to share a night of dining and dancing. Finally for Seniors came Graduation, a day well earned.

MANY NEW PUZZLE PIECES

August 17, 1996 the Youth Staff for TI camp went to Minnehaha Springs to get ready for the incoming freshman on Monday. They planned a pool party and picnic for Monday night, a dance for Tuesday night and much, much more.

The freshmen came in on Monday and got settled. During that day, the freshmen met with their family groups. In these groups, feelings were shared and friendships begun. Also during that day campers attended four sessions: Confused? Why Choose? Your Choice? and Is it Love? All these sessions centered on helping the freshmen with some high school problems. Also, on Monday night Greg Knight was the guest speaker, and he spoke about the importance of abstinence.

Freshman camp at Minnehaha Springs was not only fun for the campers, but the Youth Staff had a blast also. The Youth Staff consisted of upperclassmen and Jim Wiley, their advisor: Jim Wiley, junior Karen Ray, junior Abbie Flegel, sophomore Shanna McComb, junior Justin Elta, senior Chris Cole, sophomore Branden Fedak, senior Aaron Vaughan, sophomore Margaret Clark, senior Jessica VanReenan, junior Martha Snyder, senior Elizabeth Clark, senior Jamie Friel, junior Martha Snyder, senior Dane Sizemore, sophomore Joy Carpenter, sophomore Krissy Keller, junior Jessie Estep, sophomore Crystal Buchanan, senior Katie Keller, and senior Cindy Jackson.

On Tuesday night, Mr. Alderman DJ'd a dance and provided an evening for "boogying down." Almost everyone got out on the floor and did the "Macarena!"

On Wednesday, when they were to depart, many were not anxious to leave. It was a really good experience for the freshmen and a great camp for all.

At freshman orientation, Mr. Sanders, our new principal, gave the freshmen a warm welcome and introduced them to the teaching staff.

Freshman Harry Fisher is concentrating on puzzle pieces he collected from friends. All freshmen were given a puzzle piece at orientation to try to form a "freshman puzzle."

Junior Jessie Estep seems to be in a "jam." Junior Justin Elza and sophomore Branden Fedak are demonstrating one of the common hugs at the high school, the "Sandwich Hug!"

Freshmen Samantha Shaw, Melissa Painter, Sarah Parker, Blair Sharp and Clayton Seldomridge are waiting for the activities to begin on the football field on Orientation Day. The Teen Institute and faculty planned some games to help the freshmen get acquainted.

Week

We're Stuck

Warriors

To show support for our athletes, the traditional Spirit Week was held during Homecoming Week with the theme "We're Stuck on Warriors."

Spirit Week started on Wednesday, October 16, with Bandaid/Backwards, Inside-out Day. Thursday was Stuffed Animal/50's Day, where you could either dress as someone from the 50's and/or bring a stuffed animal. On Friday was the traditional Maroon and Gold Day when everyone dressed up and painted their faces with our school colors.

The seniors placed first on all three dress-up days. Bulletin boards were put together by each class to show their school spirit. Freshmen came in first, followed by sophomores, seniors, then juniors.

A spirit stick was passed around and creatively decorated during the week by each class. A victory again for seniors, then the freshmen, sophomores, and juniors.

The powderpuff football game took place Friday afternoon. This is when the girls play football and the guys are cheerleaders.

In the final game, the undefeated seniors placed first for the fourth time, followed by the sophomores, juniors, then freshmen.

mores, juniors, then freshmen.

After the game there was a pep rally held in the gym by the cheerleaders. They cheered and got everyone pumped up for the big game, with the football, volleyball, and soccer players and cheerleaders being introduced.

After all events were over, the seniors came in first place with 59½ points, the sophomores in second with 39½, the freshmen in third with 38, and following were the juniors with 32½ points.

Seniors Kathleen Lacasse and Cindy Jackson are all smiles during Spirit Week's Bandaid/Inside-out, Backwards Day.

Thursday, Stuffed Animal Day, was a nice way for seniors Susan Totten, Jimmy Holbert, and Aleisha Broce to show their spirit.

Senior Stephanie Nelson shows a lot of spirit on Bandido/Inside-out, Backwards Day.

Vice Principal Mr. Wade shows off himself and the spirit stick on Maroon and Gold Day.

Anita Grimes, senior, looks excited and ready to begin the big day.

A PIECE OF OUR LIVES

The twenty-seventh annual Homecoming was held at P.C.H.S. on Friday, October 18, amid terribly cold, rainy, snowy weather.

The theme for the 1996 Homecoming week was "We're Stuck on Warriors." To get the football team excited, a pep rally was held that afternoon after the traditional "powderpuff football games."

At 7 p.m. the Homecoming game began. The Homecoming attendants and their escorts rode to the field on a float; but due to the cold and rain they returned to the school until halftime.

The Warriors played Tygarts Valley in an exciting game. The Warriors pulled out to a 7 to 6 lead at halftime.

At halftime the Homecoming court returned to the field. The band played "The Dance" as the attendants and their escorts walked onto the field.

Silence fell over the crowd as everyone anxiously awaited for the King and Queen to be announced. "One Moment in Time" was played by the band as Lora Calhoun and Jonathan Owens were crowned Queen and King.

The traditional Homecoming dance was sponsored by the junior class. The music was provided by a D.J. from White Sulphur Springs. Students and alumni mingled. They had a good time and hated to see Homecoming '96 come to an end.

The rainy weather was a minor setback for all the attendants and candidates, although the umbrellas made the float more colorful.

The HOUR

WITH

Noontime is probably considered the best part of the school day. With the change to block scheduling, lunch was an hour long, leaving plenty of time to do whatever it was a person wanted or needed to do.

There were many special things that one could do at lunch other than socializing. Clubs were held on different days and times of the week. There were intramurals, where students picked their own teams and competed with each other in events like volleyball, ping-pong, and basketball. Some teachers put in part of their lunch break to tutor students who were having a hard time or who needed to make up work. All teachers had duties.

There was a mock election held during a lunchtime in November, where students registered to vote and chose who they wanted for President, etc.

Mr. Alderman sometimes had a Noon-Hour Cafe where students could sing, dance, and perform in front of the other students in the cafeteria. Sometimes special guests were brought in to perform.

Trista Rerode came to the noontime cafe to entertain P.C.J. students.

Senior James Peteete, sophomore Jennifer Gum, and senior David Rerode take a look at the new jukebox in the cafeteria.

Freshman Blair Sharp hosts the mock election sponsored by the ESSH class at lunch.

Sophomore Justin Vandevender was the intramural singles ping-pong champion.

The doubles pingpong champs were juniors Chad Baldwin and Shawn Owen.

Terry Barb taught line dancing special noontime activity. Seniors Terry and Shannon Barnisky a few lessons.

Velda Warner, Nashville recording artist, sang at the noontime cafe. In February she also did a concert for the student body.

Seniors Luke Bennett, Lora Calhoun, David Young, Paul Barb, Jenny Cox, juniors Ginger Beverage, David Simmons, and Philip Lehman made up the Champion Volleyball team.

Ice sculptures from the Greenbrier display one of their ice sculptures cafeteria. They did sculptures at noontime on the front

Three-on-three basketball champions: senior Randy Friel, juniors Danny Sharp and Wayne Worth.

Winning Efforts

Members of the Science Bowl team are seniors Kathleen Loe, Tatiana Mynuk, Nathaniel Sizemore, Hanna Smith, and sophomore Justin Jesselli.

Trips and competitions are very important to the students and clubs at P.C.H.S. Without them, students wouldn't be as involved in school activities.

Many clubs, groups, and individual students participated in various events. The band participated in many competitions throughout the state; FFA went to Kansas City, Missouri, for their national competition; and FBLA went to Charleston for their state competition. UICA went to Elkins for their state competition and came back with many awards. Phillip Anderson got 1st place for his prepared speech. The Opening and Closing team won 3rd in the state, and the Chapter Business Procedures team won 1st in the state and go on to Kansas City, along with Phillip. Also, many students came back winners from the Social Studies Fair, the Science Bowl, Math Field Day, and the Foreign Language Festival held at Bethany College.

Members of the FBLA Chapter traveled to Charleston for state competition on April 11 and 12.

Charlene Hamilton stands proud with the victory while her UICA teammates back her up at the state competition in Elkins.

The band looks ready to go at their competition at Greenbrier East.

Math Field Day winners who qualified for states are Kathleen Lacasse, Michael Lacasse, and Josh Carpenter.

The Social Studies Fair participants look happy with themselves after winning first place ribbons.

Foreign Language students traveled to Bethany College for Foreign Language Day, April 23 and 24.

Placing 2nd in the Nationals for Forestry are seniors Adam Taylor, Danny Weeks, Jason Uldrich, Sponsor Mike Burns, and James Peteete.

Working Hard for the Future! Jobs and Out-of-School Activities

Jobs and special activities are what quite a few students at Pocahontas County High do on their time out of school. There are many students who work at different kinds of jobs, such as Snowshoe, the River Place Restaurant, Pocahontas Foodland, Little General, Subway, Ryder's Restaurant, and the Boyer Restaurant. Many students work long hours in the evenings after school to pay for such things as vehicles and apartments.

Other students do different things out of school besides work, such as showing cattle or poultry for 4-H, helping out around the community with churches, and joining in outdoor competitions: fishing, biking, hunting, skiing, and archery.

"It's hard to come to school and work all day and have to go home and work all evening." - Brad McDaniels.

Senior Randy Friel ran for the Charleston Striders in a National Competition.

Senior Russell Fritt won first place in a Compound Bow competition in Pocahontas County.

Junior David Simmons works hard as a ski instructor at Snowshoe, teaching young ones how to ski.

Senior Kimberly Hendrick has been selected for the National Miss Teen of America Scholarship program in San Diego, California.

Senior Katie Keller receives her 4-H All Star pin from her 4-H leader Rene White. This is the highest award in 4-H. en Kelly, senior, bags groceries at Pocahontas Foodland in Clinton.

ene Strader, senior, works at Chuck's Lunch Box in Marlinton. He gets orders out.

Senior Jeff Fox works hard at winning, 1st in downhill, 2nd in dual slalom, and 3rd in cross country in the Norba American Mountain Bike Challenge held at Snowshoe.

Fitting In ASSEMBLIES

Besides the fact of getting out of class, assemblies offer a chance to gather with friends and become involved with activities in the school.

To start assemblies off, the annual Elf Auction was held. Students and teachers alike volunteered to be someone's "Elf for a Day" to benefit Project Christmas. Seventeen elves were sold, and over $600 was made. The money went for making Remembrance Boxes for community members.

Next was the Sadie Hawkins Day assembly, which was filled with competitions among the four classes. These competitions included many contests designed to spur class spirit and pride.

The results of the day were: Juniors first, Seniors second, Freshmen third, and Sophomores fourth.

Country singer Uelda Warner gave a concert for the student body as a fund raiser for the junior class.

Connie Keplinger did a heart-felt performance concerning drunk driving and its effects on her son and others like him.

Driver Ed. obtained an extra lesson this year on "blind spots" from Burns Motor Freight.

The final assembly was held on May 14 when the Glenville Percussion Ensemble performed. Former graduates Della Cassell and Nancy Jo Mullens were among the performers.

The singing talents of Uelda Warner were warmly welcomed by the student body.

Performing with the Glenville State College Percussion Ensemble is alumnus Della Cassell, as she shows off her musical talents.

Sophomore Ginger Ware has a one-on-one chat with Connie Keplinger after her heart-warming talk with students about drinking and driving.

Along with her Driver Ed. class, junior Karen Ray is informed by Sam Felton, safety director for Burns Motor Freight, about "blind spots."

Sadie Hawkins Day

Ginger Henry and Andrew Rider, freshmen, are doing their best to score points for their class during the life-saver relay.

Working well together are seniors Jenny Cox and "Buckwheat" McDaniels as they try to take the lead in the wheelbarrow race.

King full of Christmas cheer are seniors Jessica VanReenan and Cindy Jackson as they wait to see who their buyer will be at the annual Project Christmas Elf Auction.

Charlie Judy and Jennifer Evans, freshmen, try to keep in step with one another during the three-legged race.

Jennifer Retrode and Johnny Landis, freshmen, seem to be enjoying themselves as they prepare for the start of the piggy-back race.

Dancing

the Night Away

The 1997 Junior-Senior prom on May 3 was held at "The Connection" at Snowshoe. The theme was "From Dusk Till Dawn," and the colors were blue and silver.

Despite the wind and rain, the evening began at 8:00. No dinner was served this year, but hors d'ourves and soft drinks were provided.

Besides the D.J., there were three large screens that showed the videos while the songs were playing.

During the course of the evening students could get their pictures taken, shoot pool, or play foosball.

Everyone voted for King and Queen by open ballot. At 10:00, Ryan Mickle and Crystal Ray were crowned King and Queen along with attendants, Jessie Estep and David Simmons.

The prom ended at 11:00 for most. Some, however, attended the after-prom, which was held at Marlinton Middle School.

Eventhough students battled rain, snow, and fog, the 1997 prom was a success.

Having a great time are senior Bucky Fox and junior Andre Dufrasne.

Concentrating on the videos and the dancing is junior Kevin King.

Adding News to the Puzzle

Pocahontas County High School's newest addition is a student-produced news-cast.

"Warrior News" started as the idea of Ms. Blankenship and Mrs. Flegel. The idea was simple: a student-produced new show like Channel One, but highlighting PCHS life and presenting stories of interest. It started in September, full of obstacles. But as the year progressed, newscasts began to run smoothly. Mrs. G. VanReenan and Mrs. Keller were the sponsors of Warrior News and were in charge of "getting it all together" at first. Slowly, more students became involved, and then it was "their" show. Reporters picked the stories and set up the interviews. They then turned the reports in to Jamie Friel, executive news director.

After the stories were in, anchors Jenny Cox and Jessica VanReenan, as well as sports director Katie Keller, presented them to the school as a news-cast. Ethan Johnson, the executive producer, taped the broadcasts. Warrior News was sometimes shown in the mornings in the place of Channel One.

By the end of the year, it was a great success.

Senior Ethan Johnson, executive producer, types the script for the next newscast.

Shana Clutter and sponsors, Mrs. Van'Reenan and Mrs. [unclear], discuss the looks of the broad-cast.

Director Jamie Friel, senior, hands out new assignments.

Justin Jesselli, sophomore, spends his time editing the Warrior News broadcast.

The Halls of Fashion

At Pocahontas County High School each person has his or her own way of showing off what they call "fashionable" clothes.

Students at P.C.H.S. have very different styles. Many people are into very baggy and wide-legged pants, while others like the not-so-baggy look; they like the regular-fit jeans.

Another style would be the wild-patterned shirts. Some students are wearing the retro look - bringing back styles from the '60s and '70. Others are still wearing their comfortable flannels, sweatshirts, and T-shirts.

Another "snazzy" style was the wide variety of colors in nail polish. Available was everything from metallic to bright colors and sparkles to dull colors.

There were also many new hairstyles being sported around, including shaved heads, the layered look, odd-colored dyes, and shags.

There are many different ways of showing off your fashion sense, so whatever you choose to wear stay fashionable and stay comfortable.

Showing off the "skater look" is junior William Perkins.

h her bookbag thrown over one shoulder and looking comfortable in her jeans and flannel shirt, is sophomore Amanda Taberry.

tal wear is demonstrated by senior James Peteete and juniors Brock and Drew Taylor.

A small and familiar atmosphere is what the staff and students at PCHS have to look forward to every day. People at PCHS feel safe and comfortable in this environment. The freshman students stand against the lockers waiting patiently for their turn at class pictures.

The most important part of high school is the people. Can you imagine what school would be like without friends? Everyone needs someone to talk to about their problems and to just have fun with. During high school you will gain and lose many friends, but the memories will always last. Seniors look forward to their last year of high school. Most think of what they want to accomplish during the year, others think of what colleges they will attend in the fall, and what job they will start after graduation. Graduation is a big event for Seniors. It is an accomplishment they all have worked hard for.

Seniors look forward to planning and preparing for the prom and fundraising activities. Being experienced, Juniors know what to expect. Starting to get into the hang of things. Sophomores keep busy with their classroom work. Freshmen are nervous and scared about starting a new school. They learn to make new friends and just try to fit in and adjust to the changes of high school life.

The Class of 1997

many seniors, the beginning of their senior year at Pocahontas High School was chaotic. There were Senior portraits, and SAT tests to be taken, and college applications to be filled out, all while trying to have some fun.

Students elected to represent the senior class as officers were: David Young, president; Tina Richards, vice-president; Jenny Cox, secretary; and Megan Terry, treasurer. Many decisions awaited the class members once they were elected. Decisions about graduation were foremost on their minds. They also had to organize class meetings to vote on graduation announcements and many other senior decisions.

For the first time in P.C.H.S. history, one team held the distinct honor of being defeated at powderpuff football. The senior class finished off Spirit Week with a four-year record total of eight wins and no losses. Seniors also triumphed this year over the underclassmen by winning Spirit Week itself.

The candidates for Homecoming King were Luke Bennett, Jonathan Owens, and Randy Friel. Homecoming Queen candidates were Aleisha Broce, Christina Moore, and Lora Calhoun. Chosen as the Senior Attendant and Escort were Jenny Cox and Jason Ulderich. On the night of October 18, 1996, Jonathan Owens and Lora Calhoun were crowned as the new Homecoming King and Queen.

As the year progressed, seniors were busy with end-of-the-year activities, including Prom and Graduation. Seniors also participated in the Senior Luncheon and class trip.

After many decisions about graduation announcements, caps, gowns, and keepsakes, the big day finally arrived. On June 8, 1997, seniors crossed the stage to receive their diplomas. With their high school life behind them, the graduates faced the future, as well as the responsibilities of a new life.

One Piece of the Puzzle

For high schoolers, their Junior year is often the most stressful. Besides starting to think about college, taking PSAT, ACT, and SAT tests, they are also planning and sponsoring the Homecoming dance and the Junior/Senior Prom and fund-raising for Senior year activities.

The Junior class was led by President John Michael Bosley, Vice-President Abbie Flegel, Secretary Amanda McComb, and Treasurer Justin Elza.

The only two courses that are required of the Juniors are American History II and English. With the new block scheduling, 23 credits will be required for this year's Junior class to graduate, so Juniors have the opportunity to take several electives.

The teacher sponsors for the Junior class were: Mr. Gary Beverage, Mr. Delmos Barb, Mrs. Karen Friel, Mrs. Cathy Mosesso, Mrs. Kathy White, Mr. Gene Rexrode, Mrs. Reta Rose, and Mrs. Kay Wiley (Director).

Junior Class officers: Treasurer Justin Elza, President Jon Michael Bosley, Vice President Abbie Flegel, and Secretary Amanda McComb.

Piecing It Together

The sophomore year could perhaps be the most difficult year in high school. After a year of transition, sophomores are still faced with pressure from upperclassmen. Sophomores are required to take Health, American History, English, and Integrated Science. Many double up in math or science, hoping to get that extra edge over others! At any rate, this can lead to an evening full of homework.

An important task for every class is fundraising. This becomes even more important the sophomore year, when you're looking toward the junior prom. Sophomores were in charge of Sadie Hawkins. In September, they held a bake sale which brought in some profit.

The Sophomore class sponsors were: Ms. Blankenship, Mrs. VanReenan, Mrs. Hall, Mr. Hall, Mrs. Howell, Mrs. Leary, Mr. Riley, Mr. Sheets, and Mr. Ziegler.

Sophomore class officers: President Megan McGee, Vice President Shanna McComb, Secretary Scott Moore, and Treasurer Suzanne Stewart.

NEW PIECES OF THE PUZZLE

The 1996-97 school year began with 109 enthused and worried freshmen.

Some of the excitement and worries were caused by thoughts of new faces, classes, teachers, and older kids.

Even though things were sometimes hectic, they managed somehow to pull through.

The first order of business was to elect officers. They elected for President Clayton Sel-domridge, Vice President Alison Flegel, Treasurer Ginger Henry, and Secretary Hollie Hol-landsworth.

For the activities for the year they wanted to "try different things," Mrs. Flegel, their class director, said.

The other class sponsors were Mrs. Keller, Mrs. McGee, Mrs. Rhea, Mr. Taylor, Mr. Thompson, Mr. Herold, and Mrs. Taylor.

Several freshmen commented that they were scared at first but that it wasn't as bad as they thought. A few also said Teen Institute helped out a lot because it dealt with teen issues and high school pressures.

Freshmen Clint Johnson and Matthew Hipes seem to be getting a little carried away with themselves at Freshman Camp.

Our Educators

No matter how much students complain about the assignments teachers assign, they have to admit that without them, it would be impossible to learn to succeed in life.

Several new people joined the staff this year. Included were: Mrs. Cathy Mosesso, Mathematics, Mr. Joe Riley, Vo-Ag, Mrs. Glenda VanReenan, Language Arts, and Mr. Tom Sanders, Principal.

The faculty and staff of PCHS are hard-working and dedicated to educating students to the best of their abilities. Their efforts pay off, and the result is an educated society. For all of this, they are greatly appreciated.

Our Helping Hands!

"Support staff" consists of janitors, bus drivers, and cooks. These people do much but get little recognition.

The janitors clean, move things, and fix broken objects. Visitors to our school often believe it is newer than its 27 years because it has been well-kept.

The cooks go beyond their duty. They are glad to help. They cook for many dinners and banquets throughout the year as well as every school day.

The bus drivers have a very tough job. They have to monitor the students on their bus, remember where each child gets on and off the bus, and drive safely to and from school.

The support staff worked hard all year and did a great job.

Janitor Morgan McComb assembles a desk in the art class.

Head Cook Nancy Green gives a big smile as she starts a busy day.

The PCHS bus drivers: Front row: Alfred Dilley, Charles McQuain, and W.G. Dilley. Back row: Kenneth Cutlip, Freddy Greer, LeRoy Sharp, Alice Kessler, Scott Kelley, and Rick Irvine. The PCHS bus drivers drive both evening and morning routes.

The PCHS cooks: Sondra Vaughan, Nancy Green, Mary Walton. They cook nutritious meals for the students at PCHS.

The PCHS custodial workers: Jim Ryder, Head Custodian — Morgan McComb, and Sondra Vaughan. Not pictured: Wilma Dilley. They spend their days fixing, moving, and cleaning the school.

Lecturing during half-time of the Homecoming game is head coach Delmos Barb.

A big part of high school life, sports give students times to participate in the games that they enjoy playing. Sports have given many students opportunities for college scholarships. The football team began practicing in August and continued through a cold fall, ending their season with a record of 6-4. At the same time, the soccer season took place. Their record was 11-3, sixth in the conference.

Cheerleading gives students a chance to "be on" first the football team and then the basketball teams. The cheerleaders worked very hard to support all the players. The volleyball team worked with determination, ending their season with a record of 2-1.

Then came basketball. The boys ended their season with a record of 12-9 and the girls 10-6.

The baseball team worked hard to make their second season a success. Track gave a variety of students a chance to sharpen their skills in a variety of running, jumping, and throwing events.

Varsity players Kristy Kane and Kristen Bennett take playing basketball very seriously.

G OALS!

The 1996 Warrior soccer season started out with a loss, but the team quickly regained steam and bounced back to have an 11-2 season! All of the Warrior team members contributed something to the success of the team.

From the first set of ratings on, the Warrior team was in the top 10 in the state. The ratings include both AA and AAA schools. They were sixth a few times. A win over the AAA schools they played boosted their place in the ratings.

The Warriors looked forward to the SSAC Sectional Playoff game. The Pocahontas/Elkins soccer game is probably the most heated rivalry around. The game looked very promising for the Warrior team on their home field. They were ready to play Elkins. The Warriors fought a very tough game, but the final score was 2-1. This ended their hopes for a State Championship.

Several Warriors try to steal the ball from a Lewis County player.
The final score was PCHS 4, Lewis County 0.

CONNECTING FOOTBALL TO THE PUZZLE

Seniors Eugene Strader, Mark Buzzard look up field while Evan Bosley, junior, watches his team in action.

The 1996 football season ended on a cold and snowy November 19 with a 28 to 6 win against Franklin. This was the last time the senior players would rush onto the field as Warriors.

The season began with a disappointing loss to Bath County, Va., 16-24. The team was not discouraged as they headed into their second game; but once again they fell short, with a 6 to 20 loss to James Monroe.

The team did not stop having faith, though, and the next game proved it. They defeated Summers County 21 to 0. The boys felt better than ever; but the fourth game of the season brought them back to reality. It was a 7 to 34 loss to Mount Hope.

The guys, more upset with themselves than anyone else, proved they were a winning team in their next four games. They defeated Richwood 44 to 14, Webster County 21 to 6, Petersburg 46-12, and Tygarts Valley 34 to 6.

With only two games left in the season, the Warriors were 5-3 and hoping for a playoff position. The second to last game dimmed those hopes when the Warriors lost to Greenbrier West, 19-12.

The final victory, over Franklin, brought the Varsity team to a 6-4 record for the season, but they fell short of a playoff ranking.

The Junior Varsity played only one separate game and lost to Tygarts Valley, 0-14.

New this year was the 8th-9th grade football team. This team was formed so that younger players could gain experience through more playing time. The 8th-9th grade team's record was 1 and 5.

The 1996 Lady Warrior volleyball team had a difficult year, with Varsity only winning two games and Junior Varsity one.

The season began with the election of captains. The J.V. team was led by Angela Weadon, Amanda Bronson, and Hope May. The Varsity chose Katrina Richards, Megan Terry, and Katie Keller.

The freshmen and new players had to learn the techniques, while the experienced players had to be refreshed.

Coach Ruth Bland was back for her fifth season, after a two-year absence. She was assisted by Missy Jordan.

The team came together and never gave up. With the skills learned this year, the returning team should do well.

The 1996-1997 boys basketball team consisted of many very talented players. With the assistance of Michael Shank, Bob Sheets led both the Varsity and Junior Varsity teams to several victories.

The boys kept very busy. If there was not practice, they were traveling to games. Basketball requires a lot of dedication. Some practices are held when others are relaxing: during holidays, early mornings, and weekends.

Basketball demands a tremendous amount of practice on fundamentals, as well as on perfecting plays and getting in shape.

Due to inclement weather, the Warrior schedule became very hectic. Many times games were cancelled and were rescheduled back-to-back. Every game was hard-fought; no one was ever sure of the outcome until the final buzzer. The Varsity Warriors ended the season with a record of 12 and 9; the Junior-Varsity 7 and 9.

The Warriors travelled to Petersburg for Sectionals and returned home after a disappointing loss to Tucker.

DRIBBLING PAST OUR OPPONENTS

The 1996-1997 Lady Warriors' season began with intense practices in the middle of November, preparing for their upcoming games.

The team consisted of 12 varsity members, 10 junior varsity players, along with 7 new freshmen. The teams were coached by John Snyder and Jesse Peck.

The season began with the varsity competing in the Tygarts Valley Invitational Tournament, in which the team placed third. They also participated in the Pit Row Tournament, and they came in fourth.

The regular season brought many ups and downs, ending with a record of 10-10.

In the sectional tournament, the ladies faced an undefeated Tucker County and were beaten 47-71. Ginger Beverage was named to the All-Tournament Team.

The teams were led by two senior captains, Katie Keller and Lora Calhoun.

Lora Calhoun and Ginger Beverage were both named to the first team All-Conference.

heerleading!

Gotta Love It! —

Senior cheerleaders Susan Ten and Shelia Kramer, sophomore Jennifer Gumbert, and freshman Andrea Hefner waiting to find out where she is supposed to be.

Cheerleading got off to a late start in 1996-97, with practice not starting until September, due to the fact that no sponsor could be found earlier. Thanks to Shelia Cutlip for taking on the job!

The girls had a lot of work to get done quickly to prepare for football season. There were 14 cheerleaders to start with; but, due to injuries and other circumstances, the squad was reduced to 10.

There were six new members who had many cheers and jumps to learn and four former members who had adjustments to make. Coach Shelia Cutlip chose Shelia Kramer as head cheerleader and Chanda Hill and Pam Buzzard as co-heads.

The squad missed the first two football games due to their late start, but they jumped right in at Mount Hope to kick off their season.

Practice for competition was long and hard; but, with hours of practice, the girls nailed their routine. Unfortunately, due to illnesses, they could not attend the regionals in Martinsburg.

Finally basketball season arrived, and that meant floor cheers, stunts, and trying to cheer for both boys' and girls' games. They cheered for home boys' and girls' games and then tournaments for both. It was a rough season, but the girls pulled it off.

Working on That Batting Power in Baseball!

The 1997 Warrior baseball team did very well, considering it was only the second year of having baseball at PCHS. Their coaches were Tim McDaniels (Head) and Doug Fedak (Assistant).

The players' first practice was held at the beginning of March, so they had plenty of time to get ready for their first big game, which was to be held on April 1. Unbelievably, that game was snowed out, but they still got in 5 games during spring break.

The team had many supporters who aided the team in being self-sufficient. The players and parents had fund-raisers such as selling candy bars, taking chances on an afghan, selling Warrior car signs and keychains, and having a Hit-a-Thon at the home field at Stillwell Park. From the candy bar sales the players got new warm-up jackets.

The baseball team was defeated in the playoffs against Tucker County at Petersburg on May 19 and 21. Losing only one player to graduation, the Warriors should have a strong team next year.

Junior Kevin King waits impatiently for his turn to bat.

Head coach Tim McDaniels and assistant coach Doug Fedak look quite worried as their team takes the field.

THE LEADING EDGE

The 1997 track season began with two weeks of conditioning in the beginning of March. Throughout the next weeks the runners began to specialize.

The track meets were held at Glenville State College, Webster County, Nicholas County, Independence, and Oak Hill.

The regionals were held at Woodrow Wilson High School. To go to States you must place fourth or higher in the event. The girls that qualified were Elizabeth Clark, Kathleen Lacasse, Angela Weldon, Tosha Combs, Emily Morton, and Beth Henry. The boy members were Ryan Mickle, Luke Bennett, Phil Lehman, Paul Barb, Ethan Johnson, Jared Cain, and Randy Friel.

At the State Competition Randy Friel placed fourth in the 400-meter and second in the 800-meter runs. The 4X400 team of Mickle, Bennett, Lehman, and Friel placed sixth. Tosha Combs placed third in the 800-meter and fifth in the 1600-meter runs.

Congratulations on a great year!

together for a group hug at their last game are the senior volleyball players: Megan Terry, Katie Keller, Katrina Kards, and Jenny Cox. Not pictured: Kimberly Hendrick.

All ready to go are the senior Warrior girls basketball players, Katie Keller and Lora Calhoun.

Working diligently on their English work are sophomore Jennifer Loudernilk and freshmen Sarah Parker and Kristen Wilfong.

Students began making schedules in the spring of 1996. Block scheduling would add some room for choices. Most Seniors were only required to take English. Juniors had few required classes and could take more electives. The Sophomore class now could take a couple of elective classes, and Freshmen had to take all required classes except two electives. A few faculty changes took place for the 1996-97 school year. The math department lost Mr. David Tupper, who became acting principal at Marlinton Middle School; taking his place was Mrs. Cathy Mosseso. The English department lost Ms. 'Brien, who was replaced by Mrs. Glenda vanReenan. The Vo-Ag classes lost Ms. Deanna Poole and gained Mr. Joe Riley.

Academics is the main focus in school. Students need to plan their schedules carefully and do their best possible work in every class.

Junior Schedules

MAKING IT ALL ADD UP IN MATH AND SCIENCE!

Math and Science are two classes that may require more work than others. While some students seem to whiz through the two classes, the rest of the students need to really crack down on the book.

The Math classes that are available are: Applied Math, Transitional Math, Algebra I, Geometry, Algebra II, Trig/Precalculus, Honors Geometry, and Honors Algebra II.

The Science classes that are available are: Basic Science 9, Integrated Science 9, Integrated Science 10, Earth Science, Chemistry, Physics, Anatomy/Physiology, and Honors Chemistry.

The students are able to get help when they need it. For example, they can go to their teacher(s) before school and/or during lunch. Tutoring is available during noontime.

Students will use their Math and Science skills for many things throughout their lives.

Juniors Jennifer Conner and Jessie Landis work hard in their 4th period Applied Math Class.

Getting a reference book off the shelf is sophomore Sarah Perry in her 3rd period Science class.

Senior Billy Fischl seems to be enjoying his 4th period Biology class.

Mr. Shank's 4th period Geometry class seem to be having fun while doing their assignment.

Seniors Tosha Combs, Luke Burdette, and Ben McNeel and sophomore Josh Carpenter help each other during their 4th period Trig/Pre-calculus class.

Asking Mrs. McGee for some help with his Algebra II is senior Jeff Bennett.

"Puzzling Problems and Computer Chips"

A variety of classes are offered at PCHS to help students learn important business skills. The classes offered in the Business Department by Mrs. Stewart and Mrs. Rhea are Keyboarding I, Accounting I and II, Word Processing and Advanced Word Processing, Office Technology, and Intro. to Business. Mrs. Hall offers Computer Programming and Computer Literacy.

These teachers work hard all year to teach students skills that can help them get ready for their future jobs and careers. These classes help students write reports and type assignments for classes like English and Social Studies, also.

With having more computers available and longer class periods, the students have a chance to use the skills they have learned during their free time for fun or for school projects.

Some business students join FBLA, or Future Business Leaders of America. They compete in business contests at the State Leadership Conference in the Spring in Charleston.

Mrs. Rhea's 4th Block, Keyboarding I, seems to be concentrating on taking notes.

Junior KimShea Galford seems to be distracted to the side of her computer in Mrs. Hall's class, while Alex Gelis is glued to his computer screen.

Senior Tonya Brown and junior Baron Heinemann are doing fine in their Keyboarding I class 3rd Block.

Hard at work is Mrs. Stewart's Accounting I class, 1st Block.

Junior Stephanie Arbogast is concentrating on the Word Processing assignment Mrs. Stewart gave.

Where It All Began

The School Yearbook class got started early. The staff of 19 began by attending a workshop on August 27, 1996. There they learned everything from designing layouts to writing captions. "Making the Pieces Fit" was the title the staff came up with.

Being a member of the yearbook staff is very demanding. Staff members must not only work on drawing layouts and sizing pictures while they are in school, but they must also attend all after-school activities to take pictures.

The staff worked together and "made the pieces fit" to make the 1997 yearbook the best possible.

Consumer Science covers a variety of subjects from hospitality and quick foods to parenting and adult roles.

Food Production started off by making quick breads. They later made yeast breads and jelly rolls.

Parenting and adult roles teach students to be responsible and to prepare them for the world that awaits them.

Senior Phillip Anderson stops to take a look at his dough while making bread in his hospitality and quick foods class.

Senior Paul Barb shows off his yeast bread lion that he made in Mrs. VanReenen's 3rd block class.

Senior Christopher Campbell concentrates on making bread in his 3rd block class.

ors Chanda Hill and Katie Keller are working together sorting underclass pictures in their journalism class.

or Jessie Estep and senior Jamie Friel work hard trying to make their deadline in Mrs. Rhea's last period class.

Playing With The Pieces

Physical Education is a required course. Many students choose to go ahead and take P.E. their freshman year, but some wait until later. During P.E. the students cover basketball, hockey, soccer, volleyball, lacrosse, baseball, football, and gymnastics. This year Advanced P.E. was offered 2nd block, and several juniors and seniors chose to take this course. To be in this course, students had to have already taken one year of P.E. Mrs. Reta Rose teaches P.E. and says "The body should always be in good health."

Health is also a required class, and many students choose to wait and take it later. In this class, students cover everything from the human anatomy to healthy eating habits. Mrs. Reta Rose and Mr. Ed Hill both teach health.

One of the most important topics students cover in Health is the importance of sexual abstinence. They are told about the effects of AIDS and other serious diseases.

Freshman Harry Fisher seems to be mastering the art of headstanding in his 2nd period P.E. class.

In 2nd period Advanced P.E., seniors Ryan Mickle and Chris Cole are joying a side game of basketball. Self-defense was another topic taught Advanced P.E.

Freshmen Ginger Henry, Hollie Hollandsworth, Alison Dickenson, and Stacy Bond sneak a little goofiness behind Mrs. Rose's back and seem to be having a blast.

Freshman Matthew Hipes was wide open for the pass down the floor. He goes up for a lay-up, leaving his opponents behind.

In Mr. Hill's 2nd period Health class, a new way of teaching was introduced. Mr. Hill would "prep" a student teacher and then that student would teach the class the material. This class is working on their worksheets.

BREAKING THE BARRIERS THROUGH ART & FOREIGN LANGUAGE

Art and Foreign Language are two areas of courses that several students are interested in. The two foreign languages that are offered are French and Spanish.

French is taught in levels one through five, by Dr. McNeel.

Spanish also offers levels one through five to the students. Mrs. Friel teaches the Spanish students.

Both foreign languages participate in contests to test their knowledge of the language. They hold a county-wide Foreign Language Festival and travel to Bethany College to participate in the Bethany Language Festival.

Art is taught by Mrs. Leary. A wide variety of courses are available, such as: Art Design, Drawing and Painting, Ceramics, and Art Expression.

The students also have a chance to travel to Tamarack in Beckley and the Carnegie Museum of Art in Pittsburgh to experience new art.

Many students take art and foreign languages to have a taste of culture, while others need the credits for college.

Putting the finishing touches on his art project during fourth period is freshman Aaron Huffman.

Drawing and listening to Mrs. Friel during Spanish II is sophomore Leanne Holbert.

Freshman Caleb Smith is deep in thought while painting during fourth period art class.

Answering questions on a French IV test is senior Elizabeth Clark.

Concentrating on completing her bookwork is sophomore Jamie Smith.

SPECIAL AND DRIVER

EDUCATION

Two advantages our school has are Driver Education and Special Education. The Special Education classes for English and Math are small and provide one-on-one instruction.

The math classes concentrate on the basic operations of addition, subtraction, multiplication, and division.

The English class stresses reading, spelling, vocabulary, comprehension and grammar.

The classes have students with varying abilities, so each student works on a different grade level in a different book. Mrs. Taylor usually teaches these classes.

Mr. Herold has students come to his resource room for extra help; sometimes he reads to them or helps them with homework.

In Mrs. Wiley's Driver Education class, she not only teaches classroom lessons but also first-hand experience behind the wheel. She teaches the needed requirements to keep drivers safe on the road and everything needed to know to be safe in an accident.

This course will always be in demand.

Sophomore Joshua Smith takes time out for some serious exercise.

Seniors Robbie Long and David Ames seem to really enjoy having Mr. Herold's class at the end of the day.

Mr. Barb and junior Rusty Friend get ready to take a spin in the Driver Ed. car. Mr. Barb helped Mrs. Wiley with the behind-the-wheel training.

Junior Jason Potter patiently waits to participate in P.E. class.

Discussing the importance of driving safely is Driver Education teacher, Mrs. Wiley.

Paying close attention to the important statistics of driving are Mrs. Wiley's Driver Ed. students.

Welding and Carpentry: Building Blocks for Our Future!!

Welding is a skilled Science Technology. Welding theory, metallurgy, basic blueprint reading, welding symbols, some science and basic math are some of the things taught and learned in Welding Technology. Students are certified by the State of West Virginia according to the American Welding Society Standard. The proper amount of hours completed at the school by a student can determine the student's certification, some obtain work at excellent pay scales.

The carpentry classes worked on numerous projects this year. They built changing booths for the girls and boys basketball teams. They also built several doghouses, speaker boxes for the gymnasium, and an 8' by '12 building for the Thornwood Church. They resingled the boathouse below Seneca Lake for Seneca State Forest. They also helped build a showerhouse behind the office at Seneca State Forest. Later during the year they helped build a house for Habitat for Humanity off Laurel Run Road.

Welding is taught by Mr. Richard Thompson; Carpentry, by Mr. Sam Taylor.

Being amused by his friends is freshman Craig Baldwin, while laying off rafters for a doghouse.

Learning how to stick weld is junior Jay Cassell.

Showing what he can do in Welding Technology I is Carl White, sophomore.

Senior Eric Phillips is learning how to do Electric Arc welding in Welding Technology.

Working hard on their doghouse are freshman Ben Withers and sophomores Justin Withrow, Trampus Warner, and Travis Vandevander.

rs Kris Nutter and Brad McDaniels show sophomores Mark Davis and McCall how to build a showerhouse at Seneca State Forest.

Putting siding on a doghouse in Carpentry I are Charles Ray and Jeremy Cain.

OFFICE, LIBRARY, & REMEDIATION . . .

The center of every school, including PCHS, is the office. This is the place where school officially begins and ends. Days before the students start, the office staff starts. The office staff includes: Principal — Tom Sanders, Vice-Principal — Glen Wade, Secretary — Nancy Rexrode, and Accountant — Cora Lee Carpenter. The office is one place in the school everybody ends up one time or another. The students go to the office for everything from pink sign-out slips to notes so they can eat lunch.

The average day for the office begins at 7:30 a.m. and does not end until 3:30 p.m. or 4:00. While at school, the whole office staff works hard at trying to stay organized.

Another mainstream place for students is the library. In charge of the library are Ms. Retta Blankenship and substitute librarian Mrs. Joan Fromhart. Since the library is one of the main places in school, the librarians need help from the two aides every period.

The students go to the library to check out books and do research. They also go to the computer lab. The computer lab is attached to the library. Because of this, Ms. Blankenship is also in control of it. This is the perfect place to type up homework assignment.

Remediation is a class that was designed to help students who have difficulty keeping up with their peers. The teacher who helps these students is Mrs. Linda Beverage.

Library aides Marlene Jones and April Blankenship, seniors, finish the day by organizing magazines.

Sophomores Josh Hoover, Matthew Carver, and Jennifer Deputy work diligently trying to finish their English assignment in the library.

The PCHS Office Staff are (sitting): Principal — Thomas Sanders. (Standing): Accountant — Cora Lee Carpenter, Secretary — Nancy Rexrode, and Assistant Principal — Glen Wade.

Sophomore Rick Love and junior Richard Tawney study science with the assistance of Mrs. Beverage.

Mrs. Stewart chats with Ms. Blankenship, Librarian, during their lunch duty.

Making the Right Connection

Electricity teacher Mr. Ziegler is always hard at work teaching his students.

Electricity and Electronics are two of the vocational classes offered at P.C.H.S. that stress hands-on experience.

Mr. Ziegler is the teacher of the Electricity classes. Mr. Ziegler has beginner students and also more advanced students. Beginner students learn basic skills and also theory. Advanced students use old skills and also new skills to complete more complicated projects.

Mr. Beverage teaches Electronics and also Principles of Technology. Mr. Beverage also teaches his beginner students basic skills and terms. The advanced students are taught new skills to use along with old skills to do more complicated electronics work.

Mr. Beverage also sponsors a club called Vocational Industrial Club's of America, VICA. In this club, students get a chance to show off their skills at a state competition and can even advance to nationals to try and bring home a gold to P.C.H.S.

Ian Bennett, Jonah Bauserman, Chad Kizer, and James Peteete are concentrating on their project in Mr. Beverage's Principles of Technology class.

Tiegler's Intro. to Electricity class is hard at work on their lab project.

Brian Sharp and Jared Cain are working on a few problems in Electronics class.

Browning, Jeremiah Junkins, and Rusty Friend

on electronics.

Ben Moore, Sam Good, and John Evans are working on improving their Electricity skills.

In Touch With Nature In Vo-Ag & Forestry

Vocational Agriculture (Vo-Ag) and Forestry both contain not only book work and papers but also hands-on experience. They offer many skills that can be used for future careers.

In Forestry, taught by Mr. Mike Burns, the students learn about distinguishing different types of trees, how to properly operate machinery, and ways to protect the environment.

In Vo-Ag, taught by Mr. Joe Riley, the students learn about plants, bookkeeping, and shop work. They sell fruit and also poinsettias they grow in the greenhouse.

The club for Vo-Ag is FFA (Future Farmers of America). Both Forestry and Vo-Ag demonstrate their knowledge at the state competition at West Virginia University. If they win there, they proceed on to Kansas City, Missouri, for the National Competition.

This year the Forestry team went to Kansas City and placed third in the nation.

Doing all the work loading fruit and poinsettias in Vo-Ag is senior Davy Rexrode, while junior Mike Goldizen and sophomore Justin Vandevander watch.

The Sounds of Music

The 1996-97 Pocahontas County Warrior Band, directed by Mr. Ron Hall, included 59 playing members and 8 auxiliary.

The students begin band in the summer during a week of band camp to prepare for competitions. They attended several competitions during the year, including the Greenbrier East Marching Classic in Lewisburg, the Forest Festival competition in Elkins, and the Governor's Cup held in Summersville. The competitions consisted of long days and hard work. They also played at home football games and one away game at Richwood.

This year jazz band was added to the Music Department. This is also taught by Mr. Hall and held the first half of fourth block. Jazz band played at the Christmas and spring concerts and at several basketball games. The future for jazz band looks bright at PCHS.

The PCHS choir was small, but they also participated in the Christmas and spring concerts.

THE 1996-97 WARRIOR MARCHING BAND

The Warrior band plays "Cherokee" after the varsity football team scores a touchdown.

Mr. Hall directs the jazz band as they play during the Christmas concert held at P.C.H.S.

1996 flag corps: Aleisha Broce, Marina Richards, Kimberly McLaughlin, Cheryl Simmons, Lora Moun, Kristen Bennett, Ginger Mearage, and Kristy Kane.

Anna McLaughlin, Jessica Lan- Stephanie Arbogast, Angela low, Jonah Bauserman, Michael th, and Jeff Bauserman perform "Dolph the Redneck Reindeer" at Christmas concert.

Mentorship: Careers for the Future

Mentorship is an extraordinary program for Seniors. It offers hands-on experience in the career students wish to pursue when they get out of high school.

It is a worthwhile learning experience for them through the exposure to a work environment. It enhances their learning and, at the same time, allows them experience in the real world of work.

Seniors are eligible for the program through honors advanced education and vocational programs. They spend part of the instructional day with selected mentors in the community or school community.

Two requirements of the program are that students must maintain a 2.0 grade point average and keep a daily log of activities.

The fields offered for the Mentorship Program were Marketing, Science, Human Services, Health, Arts & Humanities, Business, Technical, and Engineering.

This program is designed to help the students make a more informed decision about a future career.

Senior Jason Fox during his mentorship at The Inn at Snowshoe takes a break from doing his duties at the front desk.

Marlene Jones learns some computer skills at the Assessor's Office.

Charlene Hamilton, who mentored at NRAO for electronics, assembles wires to a "bread board."

Some of the students who mentored are Jason Fox, Cindy Jackson, Jessica VanReenan, Katrina Richards, and Shelia Kramer.

Katrina Richards teaches French to a Marlinton Elementary student.

Future Plans

Students had the opportunity to talk to many college representatives on College Night, which was held on Tuesday, October 8, 1996. Colleges around the area were represented, and they supplied the students with information about their schools. Some of the colleges that were represented were WVU in Parkersburg, Bluefield State College, Davis and Elkins College, and Glenville State College. Recruiters for the Armed Forces were also present, and a financial aide representative was there to help the students with any financial problems they had.

During the 1995-96 school year, the Horatio Alger Foundation offered the juniors a chance to win a scholarship of $5,000. Hanna Smith took that chance, filled out an application, and waited for a response. A committee at P.C.H.S. selected the top three and sent them to the Horatio Alger Foundation. In the fall of 1996, Hanna Smith was notified she was the winner of the scholarship. The check was presented to her on Career Day.

At Career Day on April 11, students had the chance to interact with business representatives from around the community and state. Thanks to the guidance department for providing these opportunities.

Juniors Beth Henry and Abigail Flegel seem to have made their way around the room and this is their last stop, Shepherd College.

Having a long discussion with the representatives from Bluefield State College are juniors Jason Cassell and Spencer Mitchem and senior Matthew Alderman. Bluefield State College was one of the more popular colleges among the students.

Senior Randy Doss is taking advantage of the opportunity to talk to the West Virginia Institute of Technology representative.

Freshman Jessica Wilfong seems to be interested in the Army and the benefits it provides.

Standing in front of gathered friends and family, senior Hanna Smith gives her acceptance speech for the Horatio Alger Award.

On Friday, April 11, senior Hanna Smith was presented a check for a $5,000 scholarship. Standing together to accept the check are Hanna and her parents, Mike Smith and Margaret Abbott.

Awards Day

Awards Day began with the graduates walking in as they did for graduation. Students were awarded and recognized for Academics, Scholarships, Vocational, and Athletics.

The program started with the Welcome Speech from Mr. Tom Sanders. Senior President, David Young, started announcing Academic Awards; and the class Vice President, Katrina Richards, took over. Then Jenny Cox, the class Secretary, announced Scholarship Awards; and class Treasurer, Megan Terry, announced Vocational and Athletic Awards.

There were 14 Scholarship Awards, 9 Vocational Awards, 4 Athletic Awards, and 22 Academic Awards.

After awards were given out, the undergraduates stood up and applauded then departed from the seniors.

Senior Chris Cole proudly displays the Arch Wooddell Sportsmanship Award he received.

Jamie Teter, senior, goes to receive the Anna Lee Dean Business Award.

Agela Weadon and Tosha Combs, seniors, receive a certificate from track.

Scottie Moore and Luke Bennett, seniors, receive the June Riley Math/Ath-Award.

Senior Chris McClure applauds for his fellow classmates receiving awards.

David Young received many awards.

Scottie Moore received a four-year scholarship to Bethany College.

Completing the Puzzle

On June 8, the long-awaited moment finally arrived for the graduating Class of 1997.

Many seniors had anticipated this day ever since they stepped into PCHS as freshmen, four years earlier.

After two grueling days of final exams on the third & fourth of June, the seniors finally had a chance to relax.

On June 5, the seniors had graduation practice after receiving recognition during the Awards Day Ceremony. They finished the day off with some R&R at their Senior Picnic at the NRAO.

During the afternoon of June 8, families, friends, & graduates crowded into the gym, anxiously awaiting the start of the ceremony.

Valedictorian David Young gave an outstanding speech as he addressed his classmates.

Salutatorians were Elizabeth Clark & Hanna Smith.

After the presentation of the diplomas, the seniors were left with just one last thing, saying good-bye.

For a few seniors this was not difficult, but most saw it as an obstacle.

No matter where their roads may take them, they will always be with us. GOOD LUCK, CLASS OF 1997!

Junior Marshalls were: Ginger Beverage, Justin Rider, and Michelle Wimer.

Just entering the gym doorway to walk down the aisle are Alex Gelis and Stacy Greene.

1997 Honor Graduates: Aleisha Broce, Chanda Hill, Hanna Smith, Katrina Richards, Ethan Johnson, Nathaniel Sizemore, David Young, Luke Bennett, Eric Heinemann, Jenny Cox, Elizabeth Clark, Charlene Hamilton, Tatiana Mynuk, Kathleen Lacasse.

PLACING The Final Piece!

As the 1996-97 school year came to an end, so did two drastic changes for PCHS — adjusting to a new principal and implementing block scheduling.

Mr. Sanders was announced as the new principal for PCHS in the summer of '96. Not only was he starting at a new school, he was starting at a school with a new class schedule.

After two years of discussion, block scheduling was implemented. A change was made from seven 45-minute periods to four 85-minute blocks, with an hour for lunch and nighttime activities.

As the school year progressed, the doubts of block scheduling went away; but they returned at the end of the first term, when everyone had to take finals. However, with one term over, block scheduling was proven a success.

The success was because of the teachers and students, who all worked hard to make this change smooth. Mr. Sanders also proved to be a successful principal. He was responsible for several improvements during his first year at PCHS.

This school year was very different and was challenging to adjust to Block Scheduling.

— Justin Rider, Junior

School has been better this year, but it's still school!

— Fane Irvine, Junior

I've had a great four years, and I wish it would not end. I wish I could start it all over again.

— Ian Bennett, Senior

I'll be happy when I leave!

— Randy Doss, Senior

I like block scheduling because of less homework and teachers had time to really teach.

— Brandy Landis, Junior

Sophomore Hope May shows her feelings about school to her friend and classmate Megan McGee.

Michael Worth, senior, shows us how he spent his free time as a student at PCHS.

At the end of the school day some students rush to get their favorite seat on the bus, while others spend the last few minutes spreading gossip!

Kellyn Cassell, freshman, seems to be anxious to get on his bus and get home!

Philip Wade, sophomore, casually walks to his bus while senior Tommy Grubb concentrates on what happened in his 2th block class.
